

Attorney Patrick Spott recently completed teaching two classes this past fall semester at the College of St. Scholastica

. In fall 2010 Spott taught Legal Aspects of Management to undergraduates. This class is required for accounting majors. Spott also taught Business Law in the Masters of Business Administration program to graduate students. The focus of Spott's teaching is on real world business and legal experiences designed to bridge the gap between the class room and board room and court room. Spott has been an adjunct instructor at the College of St. Scholastica since fall semester 2008.
